

From Chicago's cows to Cincinnati's pigs and New Orleans' fish, public art displays like Amarillo's Hoof Prints are a trend sweeping the nation. Cities have built the idea around an animal that played a pivotal role in their history.

Hoof Prints is a community-wide public art display celebrating the history and the spirit of the American Quarter Horse. This project is made possible with the partnership of the Center City of Amarillo and the American Quarter Horse Association. With dozens of life-size horses around town, there is art from local artists everywhere. Each horse is sponsored by a local business, so take a "Hoof Prints Tour" of the city to see all the beautiful horses.

Hoof Prints honors the American Quarter Horse used on ranches surrounding Amarillo today. "America's Horse" can be seen at rodeo's timed events, working on a ranch or even on the big screen during a Western movie. The American Quarter Horse is the world's most versatile breed. The world headquarters for the American Quarter Horse Association, the largest equine breed association in the world, is right here in Amarillo. Along with the Association, Amarillo is home to the American Quarter Horse Hall of Fame & Museum, which preserves the history of the American Quarter Horse, along with honoring the people and horses that have been most influential to the breed.

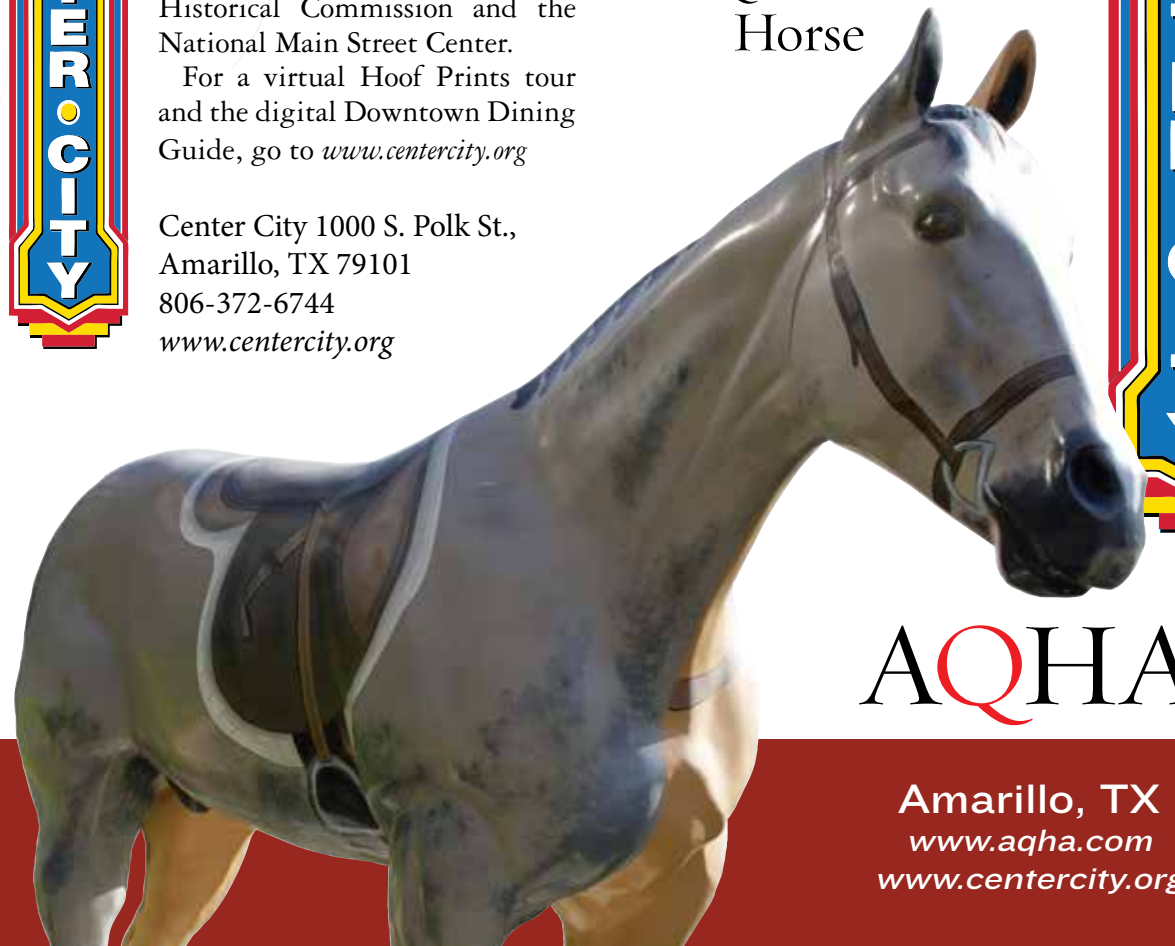

Center City of Amarillo, Inc. is a nonprofit organization dedicated to the revitalization of historic downtown Amarillo. Our vision is to make downtown Amarillo a destination neighborhood that bridges the past and focuses on the future. While you are on your Hoof Prints tour, take time to appreciate the historic architecture of downtown Amarillo and the Downtown Dining District with more than 30 locally owned restaurants. Center City is a Texas Main Street City recognized by the Texas Historical Commission and the National Main Street Center. AMERICAN QUARTER HORSE HALL of FAME & MUSEUM

After making the Hoof Prints tour, take time to stop at the American Quarter Horse Hall of Fame & Museum to learn more about the breed that inspired the display. The American Quarter Horse Hall of Fame & Museum's spectacular facility is designed to showcase the stars of the American Quarter Horse world – those people and horses who have earned their place as legends.

From the moment you approach and pass by the larger-than-life bronzes and the Wall of Honor Plaza, you'll know immediately you're about to walk where these legends once did. The Museum boasts a variety of historical information and exhibits designed to educate, preserve and inspire equine enthusiasts from across the globe. The museum has something for visitors of all ages: the Grand Hall pays tribute to members of the American Quarter Horse Hall of Fame; the Hegel Stables education gallery, where children can learn and play; the Kenneth Banks theatre, home to a collection of original oil paintings by Oklahoma artist Orren Mixer; the Champions Gallery, with a state-of-the-art digital video system showing film footage of past champions; and the historical timeline, featuring Hall of Fame inductee artifacts within the era in which they made their contribution to the breed or AQHA history.
