A town of culture, community, and beauty in Northwest Arkansas

There is a place that is unquestionably unique but also strangely familiar. It is a place filled with culture and a strong sense of community; a place brimming with artistic and natural beauty. This place is Bentonville, a new American town.

Long known as a corporate town with the hustle and bustle of vendors traveling in and out to meet with Walmart, Bentonville has experienced a seismic culture shift in the last decade spurred by Crystal Bridges Museum of American Art. The Museum is the pulse of the arts community and houses iconic works like Norman Rockwell's Rosie the Riveter and Andy Warhol's Dolly. Architecturally stunning, Crystal Bridges is now home to another architectural gem, the Bachman-Wilson house, a Frank Lloyd Wright design relocated to a hillside on the Museum's property.

In a town where progress seems constant with the flurry of new construction, Bentonville's quality of life initiatives were set in motion with this arts and cultural boom that brought with it the development of trails and pathways, parks and playgrounds. As cyclists and runners cross the beautifully bricked intersections of the downtown square, traffic pauses to watch pedestrians venture in and out of toy stores, boutiques, and coffee shops. In the fast paced world of global business, this town offers the vibe of a simple life of days past with modern amenities found in most urban centers.

Themed celebrations on the downtown square draw hundreds of people keeping them entertained with music, food, and staged performances. The city's culinary scene consistently receives awards and accolades as the industry's growth persists at an incredible pace. Golfing, boating, biking, and hiking continue to be some of the most popular activities experienced in the Ozarks and Northwest Arkansas.

Visit Bentonville is here to help you navigate our region, and we extend a warm welcome to you and your traveling companions. For assistance contact our visitor lobby at 479-271-9153.

EAT

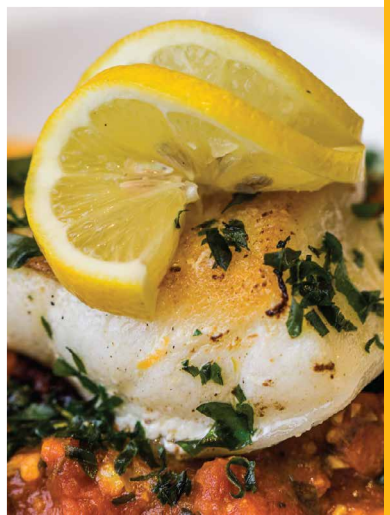

Northwest Arkansas is steeped in tradition when it comes to the local sourcing of food and that is well reflected in our culinary scene. Our chefs have wonderful relationships with local farmers and growers and buy, prepare, and serve what is available during each season. This seasonal preparation of local cuisine sparked a food movement several years ago that gave birth to what is known today as High South Cuisine. High South Cuisine is defined by retaining the original flavor profile of local Ozark ingredients and transforming simple Southern staples into sophisticated offerings. Bacon jam, Arkansas black apple butter, Ozark leg of lamb stuffed with black walnut sausage, rye whiskey-glazed pork belly are just a few such offerings created by Bentonville's culinary pioneers.

High South Cuisine drew the attention of the James Beard Foundation and, in 2013, a group of four Bentonville chefs performed to a sold out crowd at New York's famed Beard House. Since then, Bentonville has had the honor of hosting the Beard Boot Camp on Policy and Change and several Friends of James Beard Benefit Dinners.

In addition to High South Cuisine, Bentonville is fortunate to have a very diverse restaurant and food truck scene including Indian, Vietnamese, Korean, Japanese, Mexican, Latin Fusion, Italian, French, Mediterranean and many more. Opening in 2016/2017 is Brightwater: A Center for the Study of Food which will offer new spheres of culinary education, including artisanal food and beverage management, food entrepreneurship, and culinary nutrition. The center will also offer day classes for the novice and a student-run restaurant. For a full list of Bentonville restaurants go to visitbentonville.com.

DRINK

Afternoon and evening gatherings with friends around fresh brews and ample pours are more prevalent than ever in Bentonville. Over the last few years local breweries and wine bars opened shop and the crowds started flowing along with pale ales and pinots. Bike Rack Brewery and Bentonville Brewing Company are known for their unique flavors and fun, laid-back atmospheres. Ramo d'Olivo Wine Bar and Two25 Gallery and Wine Bar, both located in the downtown area are great compliments to the energetic restaurant scene and bustling entertainment district.

Nightlife, Live Music & Entertainment

BENTONVILLE

After the sun goes down, the downtown vibe shifts from one of hustle and bustle to leisurely strolls and music filled sidewalks as restaurants, bars, and coffee shops open their doors and turn up the tunes of the evening's entertainment. Three-piece jazz ensembles, Americana, and unplugged rock ballads waft from Bentonville's hot spots. Fiddles and banjo players gather on the square for a little pickin' and grinnin' while the guitar gallery prepares for some hard-core jamming.

Restaurant decks are flooded with soft light and the pleasant noise of friendly chatter. Roof top balconies and third floor concert halls give visitors a bird's eye view of the busy nightlife while the orange glow of street lights provide just the right amount of haze to paint a lovely picture of an evening in Bentonville.

During warmer months parties are planned where people gather on their bikes in the downtown square and ride to the BuckyBall, an illuminated, animated sculpture at the entrance of Crystal Bridges where a DJ and libations await. When a chill fills the air, the entertainment doesn't stop. Warming lamps are placed outside of bistros and on decks so the fun will continue.

Many downtown events like Notes at Night, Sound Bites, and the Play It Forward Concert Series take place in historic theaters and buildings including the Meteor Guitar Gallery and The Walmart Museum. Big names like Reverend Horton Heat and Coco Montoya, along with local favorites Randall Shreve, Smokey and the Mirror, and the Claudia Burson Trio, are just a few groups that have performed in Bentonville over the last several months. Check out our Nightlife tab in our Visitors section on VisitBentonville.com for up-to-date concert listings.

Hiking is a popular pastime in Northwest Arkansas. In addition to the 20 miles of urban trail that meanders through the city of Bentonville, the area is surrounded by lush Ozark forest. Hobbs State Park is just 14 miles from Bentonville and covers 12,056 acres that spill over into three counties. A 17,000 square foot visitor center filled with taxidermy mounts and interactive exhibits engages visitors while learning about the park and its inhabitants.

Devil's Den is just a few miles south of Fayetteville and has some of the most amazing scenic trails in Northwest Arkansas. Caves, crevices, and bluff overlooks are surrounded by the Ozark National Forest. Hiking, camping, swimming, and mountain biking are just a few of the activities enjoyed here.

CANOEING & KAYAKING

arkansas.com/outdoors

Bentonville is not far from the Buffalo National River, one of the country's best canoeing and recreational kayaking rivers. Other rivers in the area that are great floating rivers include the Mulberry, the Kings and Big Piney Creek. More challenging white water suitable for kayaking and rafting are just a bit further away. The Cossatot River and the Cossatot State Park are located in the Ouachita National Forest. For more information on Arkansas's floating rivers and outfitters visit Arkansas.com/outdoors.

SEMI-PRO BASEBALL

PLAN YOUR TRIP

When should I visit Bentonville?

Bentonville is the home to Wal-mart Stores, Inc. and welcomes corporate travelers throughout the week. Monday through Wednesday of each week are particularly heavy travel days for this demographic. Weekend lodging and transportation rates are typically lower and more affordable due to the absence of the corporate traveler. If visiting for leisure, we recommend traveling over the weekend to our fine city.
