

Freshness is the hallmark of dining on the Outer Banks of North Carolina. Offering much more than just seafood, the barrier islands are home to over 160 locally owned and operated restaurants. You'll be delighted in unique settings, with menu's dreamed up by the finest-trained chefs.

Nothing beats locally caught seafood - you can taste the difference in ours. We have the finest Watermen in the world who bring in plump oysters, savory shrimp, and fish entree's almost too gorgeous to eat! The Outer banks is home to one of the largest estuaries in the world, whose chain of islands jut out into the Atlantic Ocean, where species are as diverse as they are numerous. To learn more about our locally caught seafood, check out Outer Banks Catch and ask for it by name! For discriminating palettes or pocketbooks, Outer Banks restaurants serve everything from true Italian fare, to Southwestern and French cuisine. And yes, you can find down home Southern-style barbecue and hushpuppies. And you don't have to break the bank. Restaurants accept credit cards and are handicapped accessible, unless otherwise noted.

Websites, emails and phone numbers are subject to change. Restaurants listed are open year round unless otherwise noted. Smoking is prohibited in all enclosed areas of restaurants and bars.
